Paul: My brother is graduating from university next Sunday.
 Amanda: Congratulations!
 Paul: I want to organize a surprise graduation party for him, but it is a hard work.
 Amanda: Don't worry, I can help you. I'm really good at organizing parties.
 Paul: Great!
 Amanda: We need a lot of balloons, confetti and some party hats. I can buy them.
 Paul: OK.
 Amanda: How many guests are coming to the party?
 Paul: I don't know but we should invite all his close friends.
 Amanda: _____
 Paul: Oh, we need to buy some juice and lots of crisps.
 Amanda: My mum can make some cookies and a big cake.
 Paul: Sounds good.
 Amanda: Oh, yeah! I have a few amazing CDs. I can bring them.
 Paul: Thanks a lot, Amanda. Let's meet tomorrow and start preparations.
 Amanda: OK. See you!

- 1) Finally, we need music for the party. Do you have any music CDs?
- 2) Then, we should prepare a guest list.
- 3) Next, we should prepare food and beverages.
- 4) First, we should decorate the place. What do we need for decoration?

Whole Body Listening

Whole Body Listening is when you use different parts of your body to show someone that you are paying attention and listening to what they are saying!

Make sure that you are looking at the person who is talking and you are not distracted. You also want your eye contact to be comfortable. This means that you are not staring or glaring at them.

Try to match the other person's facial expression. If they are excited as they are talking to you, your face should look excited as well. If they look sad, you should have a more serious or concerned look on your face.

Your head should be turned toward the person who is speaking. You can also nod along to show that you are understanding what they are saying.

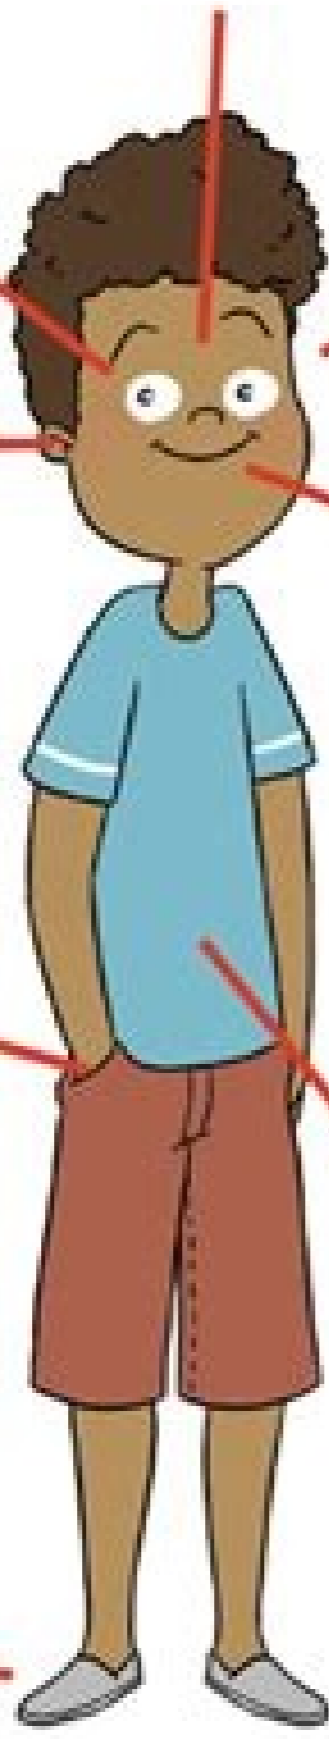

You want to make sure that you are actually listening to what the other person is saying.

When someone is talking, your mouth should mostly be quiet. There are some things that you can say to let them know you're listening. You can say "uh-huh" and "go on". When they are done talking, you can repeat back parts of what they said to show that you understood them.

Keep your hand gestures and any distractions to a minimum. You don't want to do anything to take attention away from the person that is talking.

Keep your body facing toward the person that is talking.

Your feet should be pointed towards the person who is talking. Try to not to be distracting.
